

May 4 - 8

Hello Div. 10 students and families,

A big thank you to you all for working on your learning at home and to your families for all the help and support they give. Your actions are helping us get through this and helping everyone stay safe.

I have begun receiving more recordings of student readings and it has been good to hear your voices. I have received some work back from Mr. Lee's Careers assignment and from Mr. Lassche's activities. Please note there are new assignments posted weekly.

Later this week, I will be adding Spelling City onto our list of things to practice. We completed Unit 27 when last in school so will continue on track with Unit 28. Please use the activities to practice your spelling words.

In Math, your goals for the week are:

- *spend an hour working on ixl math or your own program choice
- *make sure you choose minimum 5 skills to practice
- *answer 100 questions or more .

When you open your account on ixl, you will see Recommendations, but you must click on the Diagnostic Math tab to see a list of the skills I have highlighted with a gold star for you to try. Some skills you have worked on already and others are new. See how you do.

In Reading, please continue to explore reading materials and challenge yourself to practice lots before you send me your recordings. I have assigned a new book for everyone to try. After finishing, read and discuss the Glossary of words, following the last page, and please try to complete the Connection piece for Writing after that.

Thanks to those who sent me their written ideas for Two Roses and a Thorn.

This week I would like to assign the following written assignment:

- *Write 5-10 sentences, using 2 or 3 examples, explaining how you try to make decisions that keep you happy and safe.
For example: I know my parents worry about me crossing busy streets, so I always make the decision to be extra careful by looking and listening both ways, twice, before crossing.

I encourage everyone once more, to check out Tansor School on line and click on Library Learning Commons for more interesting things to read and do.

Have a good week!

Ms. Mazur
